PROFILE

Over the years at IVA, I have worked across entrepreneurship, innovation, sustainability, and public-interest initiatives. I am at my best in roles where I get to bring people together, build trust, shape a plan, and help ideas turn into something real.

My work has brought me close to entrepreneurs, investors, business leaders, IVA Fellows, academics, and other decision-makers. I enjoy settings where there is movement, ambition, and a real need for structure — especially when the goal is to create collaboration and tangible results.

Alongside this, I have developed a strong personal interest in AI. I am drawn to new technology, enjoy testing tools in practice, and like understanding where the real value lies. That curiosity has made me a natural point of contact for AI-related questions in my environment.
